The earliest known documentation of this approach is presented in NUREG CR-2258 2 . This particular study has been widely cited, and is discussed in detail in Section 5. 1. NUREG CR-2258 makes a number of observations and assumptions that have not been contradicted by the current study. A general conclusion is cited that initial faults involving conductor-to-conductor hot shorts are relatively likely for multiconductor cables, and this conclusion is supported by the current study ( see Section 5. 2 below ). Furthermore, the observation that not all hot shorts will lead to spurious actuations also is confirmed by the current study ( see Section 4. 2 ). Indeed, in most cases, specific combinations of two or more shorting conductors are required to cause an actuation. Hence, directly equating the nominal conductor-to-conductor cable failure mode probability to the spurious actuation circuit fault probability, while generally...
