Excerpt: . that deep-rooted persuasion mentioned by Josephus, The Jews rebelled against the Romans, being encouraged thereto by a celebrated prophecy in their scriptures, that about that time a famous prince should be born among them that should rule the world, met with a reception amongst them also. This they had imbibed in their earliest infancy, their education being such as readily prepared their minds for the influence of such prejudices; for it is notorious that they entertained notions of Christ's delivering the Jewish nation from the Roman yoke. And particularly they were prejudiced against our Saviour's resurrection so much, that one of them, though the rest of the apostles assured him they had really seen their Master alive again, yet professed, except he should see in his hands the print of the nails, and thrust his hand into his side, he would not believe. Unaccountable prejudice! after he had been an eyewitness of our Saviour's miracles, and heard him mention and assert the certainty of his rising again the third day. Against the Gentiles there had also been encouraged by the Jews violent prejudices, which also crept into the minds of the apostles, and maintained their ground, till St. Peter had been instructed by a heavenly vision not to call any man common or unclean; that God is no respecter of persons, but in every nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him. These...
