The apostle tells us that he prayed the Lord thrice that his disease might depart from him and received the reply, My grace is sufficient for you. Malaria might have departed from him, without the aid of prayer, by his merely leaving the location where he contracted it. Leave a malarial district and the disease will leave you might be accepted as an axiom. So that we may also exclude malaria as a solution of the enigma. Besides, if Paul had had malaria for so long as sixteen years, --about the period of his apostleship, --it would in all probability have so enlarged his spleen that public attention would have been drawn to it; and he would have needed a cloak indeed, not only to keep...
